PADEP and I had a tech meeting with the City last week. Things are progressing on schedule. The City did make a tweak in the treatment technology and will not be rehabbing the trickling filters, instead of the hybrid approach of trickling filter + activated sludge, they will be using all activated sludge. PADEP and I have reviewed the change and are okay with it, and this is something that Jim Kern and Tom Brown had suggested when they first presented the hybrid alternative. The City also gave an overview of how they prioritized sub basins of the collection system for CCTVing which is beginning this month to support the collection system rehabilitation plan.
